A global city deserves a first-class space. Welcome to The Underline.

BRAND STORY

The Underline is Miami's premier urban redevelopment project, transforming 10 miles and 120 acres of underutilized land beneath the Metrorail into a vibrant linear park, urban trail, and multimodal transit corridor. Connecting 112,000 residents and nearly 20,000 businesses across three municipalities, it serves as a dynamic hub where mobility, culture, and community intersect.

The Underline redefines what a city can be—an interconnected, thriving urban space where people move, gather, and grow. As a redevelopment project, we envision a future where public spaces are not just places, but experiences—designed to inspire, connect, and innovate.

Through bold transformation, The Underline is shaping a healthier, more vibrant, and more inclusive Miami—one mile at a time.

Meet Our Leadership Team

The Underline is led by a passionate team of visionaries, innovators, and community builders dedicated to transforming Miami's urban landscape. Together, we bring the experience, creativity, and commitment needed to shape a more connected and inspiring city.

Why The Underline Matters to Miami & Beyond

The Underline is more than a public space—it's an economic and cultural engine for Miami. By transforming 10 miles of underutilized land into a vibrant urban destination, we've unlocked $50 million in annual economic impact, fueled $3 billion in total taxable revenue, and created opportunities for 20,000 businesses along the corridor.

As a global model for urban redevelopment, The Underline strengthens local economies, attracts tourism, and fosters a thriving creative community.

How The Underline is Building a Greener City

The Underline is redefining urban sustainability—120 acres of green space, 500,000 native plants, trees, and pollinators, and a projected 300,000 pounds of carbon sequestered annually. Designed to enhance climate resilience, The Underline manages stormwater, reduces urban heat, and fosters biodiversity.

Our dry rock-lined bioswales act as natural flood systems, filtering stormwater into the aquifer while showcasing innovation and biodiversity.

With smart park technology and environmental sensors, we're not just creating a park—we're pioneering the future of sustainable urban living.

Designer of New York's High Line Park to Design Miami's Underline

When New York City opened the first phase of its High Line park in 2010, Miamians naturally said, "Oh, we want something like that." The Highline is 1.45-mile linear park built atop an abandoned elevated railway. Miami's answer was to propose a 10-mile linear park underneath an active railway...

Meet The Underline, Miami's New Park Designed By The Creator Of The High Line

With New York's High Line completed in 2014 (and the Lowline by James Ramsey of Raad Studio on its way for 2020), New York has certainly nabbed the spotlight when it comes to unconventional park experiences.

It's Miami's time to shine with The Underline (James Corner Field Operations' High Line–esque sibling), an urban trail and living art destination that cruises along the Miami River near bustling Brickell Avenue.

Miami's Unexpected New Art Destination

The Underline, Miami's answer to the High Line, features an impressive array of public art

There's certainly no shortage of good art in Miami. From the lauded Perez Museum, which celebrated its third anniversary this fall, to the Rubell Family Collection to the annual Miami Basel fair, during which the art-world elite descends on the Florida city for a week of art and parties, Miami has emerged in the past few years as a destination for the arts.

This week the city will add to its portfolio with the opening of four public artworks along the impending Underline, a public park and recreation space below Miami's Metrorail masterminded by James Corner Field Operations, the same firm behind New York's beloved High Line. Miami-based artists Bhakti Baxter, Naomi Fisher, Nicolas Lobo, and Agustina Woodgate have been selected to create the Underline's first round of temporary artworks, opening January 14.

From NYC's High Line to Miami's Underline: How Linear Parks Are Changing Cities

New York's High Line is world-famous, but it's not the only project seeking to transform abandoned locales into beautiful green spaces.

BY MOLLY ELIZALDE
January 26, 2017

Today, the area underneath Miami's Metrorail is winding, barren, and irregularly paved. But the city has plans for a dramatic transformation. The Underline is a project set to reimagine the 10-mile stretch between the Brickell and Dadeland South stations with bike and pedestrian trails, sport courts, and innovative landscaping.

Designed by James Corner Field Operations, the same urban planning firm behind the High Line, the first phase is a one-mile area starting at the Miami River. Construction won't begin until this fall and is slated for completion in 2018 (the entire project will take seven years), but the Underline is already gearing up its programming.

The Underline was always an ambitious concept, a $120 million 10-mile linear park that will weave through several municipalities, invigorating the space beneath the Metrorail.

Now the Underline is preparing for another bold move: opening during a pandemic.

Meg Daly, president and CEO of Friends of the Underline, shared at a recent Downtown Development Authority committee meeting that the first phase of the park, a half-mile stretch known as the Brickell Backyard, has a projected opening day of Oct. 1.

After Years Of Development, First Section Of The Underline - Miami's Linear Park - Opens Under The Metrorail

By Lea Lane, Contributor
Feb 23, 2021, 3:18pm EST

On Friday, February 26, the park's first section, "Brickell Backyard," officially opens.

The Underline will eventually become a 10-mile linear park, a world-class urban trail and public art destination, and will meander from the Miami River to Dadeland South Station. Each of the three sections of the park will reflect the feel and desires of its neighborhood.

Phase 2 of The Underline, a 2.14-mile segment that connects Southwest 13th Street to Southwest 19th Avenue, is more than 45% done. It's still set to be completed in July 2023 and become part of the 10-mile linear park below Miami's Metrorail stretching from the Miami River to Dadeland South Station.

Miami Is Nearing the Finish Line for Its New 10-Mile Park

A 10-mile park running underneath a rail transit line in Miami-Dade County is expected to be complete next year. The county's former transportation chief just signed on to lead a nonprofit supporting the project.

Public Meetings

The last set of public meetings were held on Oct. 10 and 11, 2023. At these gatherings, staff presented the final path layout and landscaping strategy for various segments of Phase 3. Read the presentation shown at the meetings.

Phase 3 of The Underline is a 7.36-mile segment that connects SW 19th Ave near the Vizcaya Metrorail station to the Dadeland South Metrorail station. The entire segment links various communities including City of Miami, Coral Gables, South Miami, and Unincorporated Miami-Dade County.

On Oct. 18, 2022, Miami-Dade County awarded the construction contract to NV2A Central Joint Venture. The total estimated construction cost for Phase 3 is $109 million.

Phase 3 will be built on three key drivers: safe multi-modal transportation, nature, and community. These priorities were created through a series of public and community input meetings during the Framework Plan, and the Phase 1 and Phase 2 design process.

THE PROMENADE & INTER STAGE

LOCATION: Between SW 8th and SW 10th Street
Brickell Metrorail Station

The Promenade has dedicated pedestrian and bicycle paths that connect to a series of rooms that promote social interaction.

- Inter Stage and Plaza provides a comfortable gathering place and stage for events, concerts and programs, or just a great place for people watching!
- Game room with individual tables for chess, checkers and dominoes that line the area along SW 1st Court.
- Dining room features a 50-foot long communal table facing SW 1st Avenue near the Brickell Metrorail station.

THE OOLITE ROOM & THE 11TH ST. PLAZA (TYPOE SCULPTURE GARDEN)

THE OOLITE ROOM

LOCATION: Between SW 12th and SW 13th Streets

The Oolite Room is a lush naturalized area running between existing monolithic oolite stone formations directly beneath the Metrorail.

This area features four butterfly gardens with seating areas made of oolite boulder benches that look onto the dedicated bicycle and pedestrian paths.

THE 11TH ST. PLAZA

LOCATION: Between SW 10th and SW 11th Streets.

With the Metrorail above, modern hardscape, and art-integrated seating, the 11th Street Plaza provides an ideal backdrop for intimate gatherings, pop-ups, and small-scale activations. Elegant yet approachable, 11th Street Plaza brings art and community together in a uniquely Miami setting.

THE HAMMOCK PLAYGROUND

LOCATION: SW 15th Road & SW 1st Avenue

Designed to serve children of all ages, the Hammock Playground boasts nature-inspired play equipment, engaging public art, and lush native plants and trees. With gardens inspired by one of South Florida's only preserved hardwood hammocks at the adjacent Simpson Park, visitors can also participate in numerous gardening and educational horticulture activities. There are three notable works of art including The Modified Social Bench by internationally acclaimed artist Jeppe Hein.

VIZCAYA STATION PLAZA

LOCATION: 3205 SW 1st Avenue

The Vizcaya Station Plaza has transformed a Metrorail station into a revitalized community space offering a programmable plaza, comfortable seating, enhanced lighting, and lush native landscaping.

The Plaza provides access to a pedestrian and bike bridge that connects this inviting public area to the iconic Vizcaya Museum and Gardens on the south side of US1. This is one of the many connections The Underline provides to some of South Florida's most important institutions and facilities.

THE RAIN GARDEN

LOCATION: US1 & SW 17th Avenue

The first of many innovative stormwater gardens on The Underline, The Rain Garden showcases The Underline's commitment to sustainable stormwater management while creating an urban oasis.

This bioswale provides green infrastructure to efficiently manage stormwater while also providing a haven for urban gardening and reconnecting individuals with the beauty of nature.

INTER GROVE GALLERY

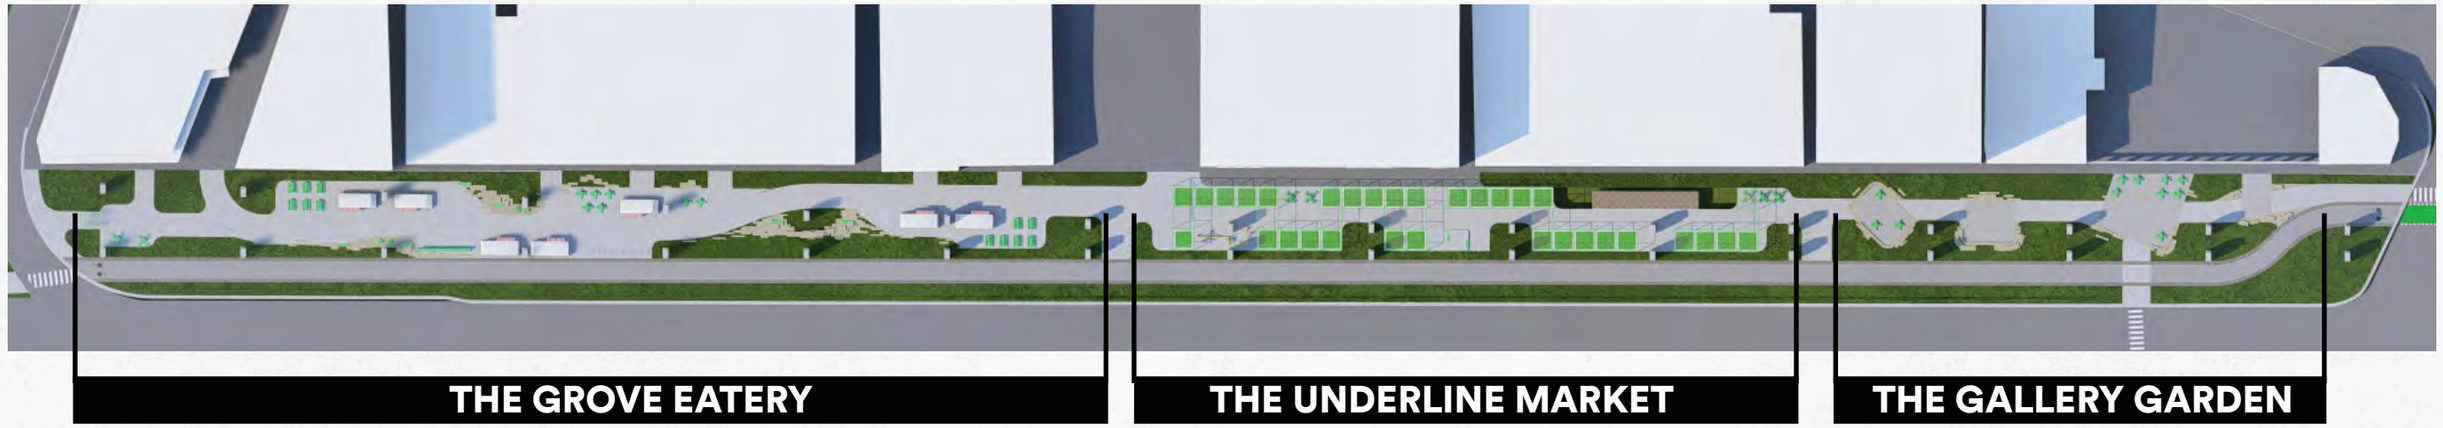

LOCATION: SW 24th Avenue to SW 27th Avenue

The Grove Gallery is a 150,000 square foot community and commercial space that brings a pop-up market concept to neighboring Coconut Grove and Golden Pines communities in the City of Miami.

The Grove Gallery accommodates both food trucks and kiosk concessions, has two Bocce courts and provides generous seating and dining areas to support guests and businesses. This area will also be a platform for cultural performance and public art. There are three distinct programmable areas: The Grove Eatery; The Underline Market; and The Gallery Garden.
